He was regularly led to the church, to his place of honor, where he sat the supreme magistrate of his tribe, scrupulously dressed in the insignia of his office, a mammoth rosary hanging around his neck, whilst on another, held in his hands, he told his beads; always the first at the hour for prayer, the first also ever to welcome the Pallias in his missionary visitations. He was never known to speak one word of English, but his speech was of the purest and most classical ancient Indian dialect. It was part of his office to carry the cross at the head of processions and of funerals; and he never missed this part of his duty, even when his frame was tottering, his mind wandering, and his eyes blind. Woe to them had they neglected to warn him of...
