Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Jean, Vol. 2 Taking her to be one of the servants, and the errand an ordinary one (he had carried many a package to and from Fernside in the same way), the boy shouldered the trunk and set off for the railway station, too much interested in the mental disposal of his shilling to give a thought to anything besides. At half-past five o'clock the next morning, Jean crept downstairs, softly unbolted the doors, let herself out of the quiet house, and walked quickly towards the railway station, carrying a hand-bag, in which she had packed a few remaining necessities. Unnoticed by the people standing about in groups, mostly consisting of farmers going to attend the neighbouring markets, she procured a ticket for the London terminus, claimed her trunk, took her seat in one of the carriages, and presently found herself gliding away from Raystone. After a first hurried glance at her companions in the carriage, and to her great relief finding them to be strangers to her, she turned her eyes upon the town they were leaving behind.
