Excerpt: . . . on account of the failure of the company to send day men in to clean up a fall which had occurred on the day previous. The company claims they did not clean the places but put a switch through the cross-cut to head the place off. It was taken up at the mine, June 27th, by Special Agent Cahill and Board Member Dobbins. They agreed that the pit committee and mine manager would make an investigation and if it was found that the fall was not cleaned up, as contended by the company, the claim for compensation would be dropped, but if the fall was cleaned up and he had lost a days work he would receive compensation for this day. Case No. 2037. File No. 1203. Entered June 28, 1914. Chicago-Sandoval Coal Co. , No. 2, Sandoval. --Two miners had a fall in...
